

HMAS Waller SSG75

The third boat of the Collins class.

Commissioned:

July 10th 1999.

The First Watch, at about 0600 hours.

The Officer of the Watch waves a Navy Sea Hawk over the forward casing.

Two ratings with safety harness stand by for the boarder.

In 2000, Waller became the first RAN submarine to operate as a fully integrated component of a United States Navy carrier battle group. During RIMPAC war games Waller successfully engaged two USN nuclear submarines and came into attacking range of the supercarrier, Ambraham Lincoln.

During 2003 exercises Waller also "sank" a Los Angeles class nuclear submarine, and in waters just over 230 feet deep, two USN amphibious vessels.
